

I WILL ANSWER

From upon the portals high,
Beyond the reach of land and sky,
God has heard the anguish cry
Of those whose stumble through the maze
Of troubled nights and troubled days,
And give the clue that leads to truth,
Saying, "I will answer."

Hand in hand two people rise,
And the look within their eyes
Tells the story of their hearts,
Of the truth that God imparts,
Of His Presence and His Love
Granting wisdom from above,
Saying, "I will answer."

There among the maddening crowd
Stands a man with head unbowed,
Unashamed to speak forthright,
"Here at last I found the Light,
Now with purpose, aim and goal
God is Master of my soul,
'Saying, 'I will answer.'"

William Allen Zulker
1968